

CLAIMS

I claim:

1. A medal mounting device, comprising:

an elongated support bar for being positioned through a plurality of looped medal ribbons for supporting said ribbons in a row on a uniform, said support bar having a front side and a rear side;

a backwardly recurved first end and a backwardly recurved second end on said support bar;

a first pin and a second pin respectively attached to said recurved first end and said recurved second end of said support bar, and extending rearward for inserting into the uniform;

a first spring clip and a second spring clip detachably attached respectively to said first pin and said second pin for being positioned inside the uniform; and a forwardly bowed clamping bar separate from said support bar, said clamping bar long enough to extend between said recurved first end and said recurved second end of said support bar;

a third pin extending from a back of said clamping bar for inserting into the uniform; and a third spring clip detachably attached to said third pin for being positioned inside the uniform;

wherein when said clamping bar is positioned behind said support bar and opposite ends of said clamping bar are positioned in front of said recurved first end and said recurved second end of said support bar, said clamping bar is arranged for pressing against the ribbons to secure the ribbons in position.
